

The Union of Non-Unionized Employees Benton/Franklin County, Washington State Chapter

Unions at Work

The Unions that are supposed to protect their members are using their workers to collect signatures in favor of a Washington State Income Tax (I-1090). The idea is that if Washington receives additional funds from income tax, then the Unions can request Washington State funds to supplement their retirement programs so they can spend more money buying politicians who will allocate them more money etc.

Of Course, these Washington State Income Tax funds will only come from “the Rich”!

Non-Unionized Employees members have observed that these Union workers have set up petition booths to collect signatures here in the Tri-Cities. The petitioner strategy is to identify themselves as Veterans, then present a popular referendum for signature. After getting their “mark” to trust them, then they present other referendums for signature that supposedly provided more money for school teachers and finally, the referendum supporting I-1090, the Washington State Income Tax.

In addition to these signature booth promoters, the Unions hired other people to obtain signatures as well. These people played the game as expected and created fictional names or arbitrarily selected real people and forged their signatures. Some were caught and face charges of fraud. <http://www.spokesman.com/blogs/spincontrol/2010/sep/15/signature-fraud-case-filed-against-i-1098-worker/> Makes you wonder how may got away with it! If you signed any of the petitions presented, you can be sure that your name, address, and “signature” appeared on the I-1090 petition as well.

Why do these Unions need to have their (your) retirement funds bailed out? Could it be that the Unions have been playing games with your retirement funds to line the pockets of the Union leaders and to buy Union backing politicians?

Republican Strategy Ballot

The Union of Non-Unionized Employees recommends that our membership return the prepaid envelope with Republican Strategy Ballot to Senator Orrin Hatch. Please place the following statement on the ballot:

“My money goes to help Tea Party Candidates throw out backstabbing RINO Republicans!”

Come November – VOTE for the most conservative candidate!
